Judge Supreme Court, First District, George F. Reinhard, of Spencer county.
Judge Supreme Court, Fourth District, Joseph S. Dally, of Wells county.
Secretary of State, William H. Myers, of Harrison county.
Auditor of State, Joseph T. Fanning, of Marion county.
Treasurer of State, Morgan Chandler, of Hancock county.
Attorney General, Francis M. Griffith, of Switzerland county.
Clerk Supreme Court, C. W. Wetman, of Sullivan county.
Superintendent of Public Instruction, Charles Thomas, of Harrison county.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 15.—After Gov. Matthews, the permanent chairman, finished his address before the Democratic State Convention the platform was read and adopted.

It follows the record of the Democratic party in Indiana, particularly praising it for the passage of the fee and salary law; the law forbidding the importation of Pinkerton detectives, and the law against the importation of alien or foreign laborers, and the school-look law. The platform then continues:

"We affirm our opposition to the vicious system of class legislation mislabeled protection and pledge ourselves to continue the battle against it until every species of extortion and robbery fostered by the McKinley tariff policy is destroyed from our revenue system and people enjoy all the blessings of commercial liberty. The protective system has built up the great monopolies and trusts which control absolutely so many industries and have done so much to debauch the politics of the country and corrupt the legislative department of the Government. We denounce the tariff policy of every kind as a fraud and a robbery of the great majority of the American people for the benefit of the few. We maintain that no tariff taxes should be levied except for purposes of revenue only; and that such taxes should be limited to the necessities of the Government, homestead and economically administered."

"We denounce the McKinley law enacted by the Fifty-first Congress as the culminating act of class legislation in Indiana. We approve the efforts of President Cleveland and his Administration and of the Democratic House of Representatives and a large majority of the Democratic Senators, and particularly our distinguished Senators from Indiana, Hon. D. W. Voorhees and Hon. David Turpie, and our entire Democratic delegation in Congress, to reduce to naught the McKinley tariff policy."

"We approve the efforts of President Cleveland and his Administration and of the Democratic House of Representatives and a large majority of the Democratic Senators, and particularly our distinguished Senators from Indiana, Hon. D. W. Voorhees and Hon. David Turpie, and our entire Democratic delegation in Congress, to reduce to naught the McKinley tariff policy."

D. W. Voorhees and Hon. David Turpie, and our entire Democratic delegation in Congress, to reduce to naught the McKinley tariff policy."

law by our next Legislature for the taxation of that class of money."

"We also most heartily endorse the action of the Democratic Congress in repealing the odious election law."

"We are in favor of a constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States Senators by the direct vote of the people; we are also in favor of such constitutional and other changes as may be necessary in order that Congress may assemble as soon after the election as is practicable, and to the end that the will of the people as expressed at the polls may receive prompt and full legislative expression."

"We believe and declare that the policy and principles of what is called the American Protective Association are liberal, unwise, unprincipled, undemocratic and un-American. In the spirit of that religious freedom which characterizes our Constitution and laws, and the spirit of that wise constitution and generous statesmanship which seeks to afford citizenship, we call upon every man to debate against that organization."

"The Democratic party of Indiana is as it has always been, the friend of the laboring man, of whom its membership is largely composed. It is in heavy sympathy with every lawful effort to secure for those who earn their livelihood by their daily toil, for protection within their rights as American citizens to better the condition of their lives, to secure for them full and fair compensation for their labor and afford them every possible opportunity for moral, social and economic advancement."

"We condemn the efforts that have been made, whether by the protected friends or the avowed enemies of wage-workers to identify their cause with the infamous conspiracy of lawlessness and anarchy, which threaten the very foundations of order and civilization."

"We are opposed to every manifestation of violence and mob spirit and stand squarely for the maintenance of law under all circumstances and upon all occasions."

"We favor the enactment and enforcement of such laws regulating immigration from other countries as shall exclude the pauper and vicious classes who are entitled to humane American citizens and whose presence in this country will furnish a standing menace to the prosperity of our land."

"We condemn the cowardly attempt of the Republican party to escape the responsibility for the existing depression of the business affairs of our country. This condition is the natural, logical and inevitable result of the tariff system of taxation known as 'McKinleyism,' combined with the vicious financial legislation and profligate extravagance of the Republican party."

"We favor the establishment of a tribunal of arbitration, in which there may be secured a peaceful settlement of all disputes between employers and employees."

"The Democratic party, it has been often, opposed to all arbitrary laws as contrary to the principles of free government, and favors the efficient maintenance of the liberty of the citizen consistent with good government."

"We indorse the repeal of the purchase clause of that cowardly Republican make-shift known as the Sherman silver act of 1890."

"We reaffirm our belief that both gold and silver should be used as a medium of money of the country, and that both should be coined without discrimination between either metal and without charge for mintage."

"We believe it absolutely necessary to the welfare and prosperity of the great producing masses that silver should be admitted to the place of gold as a medium of currency, and we call with delight the many signs of a revolution in public opinion in the great commercial nations of a restoration of the bimetallic system."

"We pledge our hearty effort to secure the adoption of every measure for the complete restoration of the free use of our monetary system and give to the two metals an equal value at all times in the market and in payment of debts, and we demand that all paper currency shall be kept at par and redeemable in each coin."

"We declare that the present national condition is a disgrace to the people of Hawaii, unwise by our naval and military force to manage their own domestic concerns and place their country in the hands of foreigners."

"We heartily indorse the able, fearless and patriotic administration of Grover Cleveland, and especially his course in enforcing the law and the tariff."

"We heartily indorse the wise and patriotic administration of Grover Cleveland, and especially his course in enforcing the law and the tariff."

blackford Association.

This body met at the Grove church, Hancock county, on Wednesday, August 8th. At the suggestion of one of the brethren in the ministry, and to the great relief of the present crisis, his son, C. J. Brinner, was elected moderator instead of himself, and E. N. Morrison, clerk, as scribes. The weather was very warm and the roads very dusty, while the congregation was a perfect overflow. The business was gone through in that hurried manner which is always inevitable by the attempt to do the work of three days in two, and, of course, important matters had to be allowed to pass without requisite consideration. The body passed a resolution asking the Presbytery, Breckinridge county, to meet on three days next year, and govern themselves accordingly. It is hoped the churches will bear this in mind when they elect messengers, next year, and instruct them to allow three days.

Another new departure was taken, in asking the churches with which we meet to change every person twenty-five cents each day for dinner, except messengers from the churches and from corresponding bodies, ministers in the General Union of Baptists and representatives of institutions and individuals with which we co-operate. Also that, if the church thinks best to allow refreshment stands on the ground, also take charge of them, and that the net proceeds thereof, together with the money received for dinner, be paid into the treasury of the church, to be used as the church shall direct. This association is determined to try, at least, to solve the problem of how to get rid of the noisy and unruly crowd that has become almost a necessary part of our annual gatherings. Whether this plan will solve it or not remains to be tried. It will be looked to, with considerable interest. We hope the churches will do the body the honor to carry these resolutions out strictly to the letter, and let us see what the result will be. R. T. Evans, Secretary, August 10.

TARIFF BILL.

The New Law Is Not What We Wanted, But It Has Many Good Features.

Many Rates That Have Been Burdensome Are Either Taken Off or Lowered.

STAND BY THE BILL.

While the Senate Tariff bill does not meet all the requirements of tariff reform, it fulfills with which our readers are familiar, it ends down by a considerable percentage, as a rule, the tariff taxes of the McKinley act, where those taxes of the free list by the addition of several very important provisions. Even in the case of refined sugar the Tariff's protective duty is reduced, according to the several Republican authorities, from McKinley tariff of 60 cents per hundred pounds to 42-1/2 cents, and nothing but the existence of a conspiracy on the part of a little group of Senators—whose purpose was to prevent the passage of a bill—prevented the Democratic Party from cutting off every particle of this protection. With respect to two other products concerning which there was contention, it should be added that the McKinley duty on iron ore and bituminous coal is reduced nearly one-half, from 25 to 40 cents per ton.

It is not our purpose now to compare closely the Senate bill with the McKinley tariff, but only to point out the important additions to the free list, with some reference to certain reductions in the dutiable schedules.

First in importance is free wool. The Senate as well as the House put wool on the free list. A tariff act making wool of all kinds free of duty would be a memorable and very beneficial act, even if it provided for any other changes in the existing tariff schedule beyond a corresponding reduction of the duties on woolen goods. The value of the wool imported in 1893 was $18,500,000, and the duties paid were $2,500,000.

With free wool we have free lumber. The Senate bill removed the duties on lumber and sawed timber, squared lumber, sawed boards, shingles, clapboards, laths, lathe, and staves. In short, substantially everything in the McKinley wool schedule except furniture, the duty upon which is reduced to 25 per cent. The value of the woolen articles, now placed on the free list, was $10,000,000 in 1893, and $1,100,000 was paid in duties.

Salt goes on the free list. In 1893 there were imported 312,000,000 pounds, and the duties were $300,000. Binding twine is free of duty. Also bagging for cotton, burlap, and straw bags made of burlap. With these are Chinese matting for floors and the iron bands (cotton twine) used in baling cotton. The value of the twine imported in 1893 was $7,000,000, and the duties amounted to $2,000,000. Upon imported grain bags valued at $1,200,000 the tariff tax was $200,000.

Plows, tooth and disk harrows, mowers, reapers, agricultural drills, harvesters, horse-drawn cultivators, threshing machines, and cotton gins are made free of duty. The manufacture of some of these implements is controlled by Trust combinations. The Senate bill removes any duty that could exist there in existing high prices at home and with the large imports at lower prices abroad. The absurd duty imposed on tin, the metal by the McKinley act, is repealed, and thus the cost of a raw material largely consumed in many important industries is considerably reduced. The enlarged free list exhibits a notable reduction of the duties on tariff taxes.

In many of the dutiable schedules a considerable part of the McKinley tax has been thrown off. The removal of the duty on wool is accompanied by a very large reduction of the duties on woolen goods. The value of the women's and children's dress goods, coat linings, and similar fabrics imported in 1893 was nearly $18,000,000, and the duties were more than $1,200,000. The average ad valorem rate upon the McKinley tariff was 102-1/2 per cent. The Senate bill reduces this to 40 and 50 per cent of the duty on imports of woolen and worsted cloth valued at nearly $13,000,000 was 100 per cent; the Senate's bill rate is 40 and 50 per cent. The duty on woolen knit fabrics (imports $1,400,000) is cut down from 94 per cent to 35 and 40 per cent.

In the McKinley tariff the duty on plain china is 55 per cent; the Senate bill reduces this to 30 per cent, and the McKinley tax of 60 per cent on ornamental china comes down to 35 per cent. There is in the dutiable schedule, as well as in the free list, much that earnest and consistent advocates of tariff reform can regard with satisfaction.—N. Y. Times.

CONGRESS WILL adjourn this week.

The Senate Finance Committee has reported favorably on the four supplemental bills sent from the house.

A woman in Frankfort took poison because her husband went to live Breckenridge. She didn't take enough, however, to kill her.

JOHN NEVITT candidate for sheriff on the Populist ticket for fall is not the highest and genial proprietor of Basin Spring farm as some would be led to believe. Mr. Nevitt, the candidate, is from Hendersonville.

The politicians were simply not in it down at Owensboro last Tuesday. Dr. Clary marched his farmer force in high and early, captured the nomination for the first ballot and left for home before the politicians got up.

ENROLLMENT $2.75 per capita for military purposes and 20 cents for education. The United States spends 10 cents for military and $1.20 for education. It is no wonder that they are always ready for war across the waters.

It will be noticed by an ad in another column of this issue of the News that the last opportunity that the ladies of Cloverport will have to attend the Tar Springs excursion and enjoy themselves via the Breckenridge route will be next Sunday. A large crowd is expected.

There was very little political gossip floating around on the air at Harlanburg last Monday. The candidates were all there making a last call as it were, plucking flowers to one side with "how's things in the family" line. The battle will open up about the first of September in good hard earnest.

The Breckenridge Messenger has lately moved into new quarters and knows one of the best equipped newspaper plants in the state outside of Louisville. It's a pleasure to step into an office like the Messenger. Everything is neat, clean and orderly and there's a business air prevailing that you seldom see in most newspaper offices. We congratulate you, Mr. Woodson.

The Republicans are still keeping up their campaign of misrepresentation. It was reported that ex-Sheriff Stuart DeJenette is behind with his settlements from $10,000 to $15,000. The truth is, he does not owe the State a single cent—his settlements have been made and the books are balanced. He is indebted to the county a little over $1,000, and because of the fact that his little home is worth from $7,000 to $8,000 he has not been paid for this. Every body knows that this shortage is no fault of Mr. DeJenette, but of a delinquent deputy. The County Court knows that the debt is good and its members are not uneasy. The books are open for inspection in the County Clerk's office and the handbook, often can be looked at. Mr. DeJenette himself. The Republicans cannot win by these false tales.

Commissioner Rehage was here from Harlanburg yesterday and sold the M. L. London house and lot on the hill opposite J. R. D'Haven's. He got $60 as a commission. The company claimed that the policy was sold for $500,000.

The school is planned to close on Friday. It will be closed for a week. We'll make it to your interest if you contemplate paying a watch—T. C. Lewis & Co.

Mr. Hendrick, wife of Will Hendrick, Jr., died at her home last Thursday night at twelve o'clock. She was buried Friday evening at the family burying ground.

Traffic court, of Louisville, will open a drug store on Main street, opposite County Jail, about Sept. 1st. Ed Guttridge, formerly proprietor clerk with Witt & Mencher, will run it for him.

The securities have notified Thomas McClure that he has been notified that they will have to pay $275 more on his official bond. This amount is for his shortage in stamps and stamped envelopes.

Rev. Breveling and wife left this week to attend a county meeting at Princeton. When he returns he will begin a meeting at Oakland, and then wind up and go to Ephraim in time to hold a meeting before leaving for the annual Conference.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED.

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running nose or inflamed hearing and when it is healed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and the tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

CHAPTER V.

THE PHYSICIAN.

For once the doctor had been called in.

"What a curious fancy, that!" he mused. "I believe if she does get well,

I will teach her the first thing to paint.

Hedge, but she's not well yet!"

It had grown quite dark in the sitting room when he had been talking. The early evening of a winter's day had already come. Lamar all at once took to a realization of the flight of time. He turned the face of his watch to the fire and exclaimed:

"What an I lagging here for! It is nearly 6 o'clock! It does not look, to this girl will ruin my business. Let us see how the patient is before we go. No, you need not trouble yourself to get a light, Miss Maxey. I have more than one, sleeping quietly! That is good, very good. I should wonder after all, Maxey—but, ah, who knows, who knows?"

"I will strike a light while you put on your things," said Miss Maxey.

"Oh, no, don't, pray. I know how uncomfortable this twilight is to me, and with a light if you can help it. It is the best thing of the day. Well, Maxey, good night."

"No," said Maxey suddenly. "I think

I will go out with you. I have got something to say, and besides I want to smoke. Since our new maid that has promised here, you know, Ellen, you are tired, and if I were you I would go down a little while. I shall not be very long. I am just going to the corner with the doctor. But really, if you will take my advice, you will lie down and rest yourself."

"Don't worry about my dear, good brother. I know him and his weakness. I shall not overtax myself.

It has not hurt me to be up a little night. I feel as bright as a day now."

This must have been the words of

Ellen, Ellen Maxey. Your brother had scarcely closed the door behind himself and the handsome doctor when you threw your third body upon the bed.

You listened to their footsteps going down stairs. You heard them becoming fainter and fainter till they are lost altogether. The deep voice of Dr. Lamar is still sounding in your ears. Do not deny the fact that it is exceedingly good made to you. You think of Dr. Lamar, and you wonder.

The great house is so still, and you are so very tired! What was that? Somebody at the door? No. A rat crawling behind the wainscot, and a rat crawling at the door. The wind rattles the panes.

There is no other sound. Even the fire is making noise in going out entirely.

You are so small asleep.

"Open the door! Is that you? Ellen! Ellen! Open the door, I say!"

Still the silence of the grave within.

Julian Maxey was thoroughly alarmed by this time. Always he had stood in the hall pounding and calling for what ever seemed to him. There was something very strange about the door. It was ajar, and he had seen the light strange that Ellen, expecting him back directly, should look the door on the inside. Stranger still, he had seen the light go out and leave the sick girl alone.

Ellen! For the last time, Ellen!"

Maxey had a momentary feeling of breaking in the door. Then he thought himself of his brother's key. He thrust physician. Dr. Lamar became slightly embarrassed.

"I beg your pardon if in my anxiety for your welfare I have touched on a family matter."

"It is nothing to be ashamed of,"

started out Maxey, "but it is very secret, and I have no right to mention

it. No one need know a word to me.

But I am not blind."

"Don't betray her, I beg of you," said the physician calmly. "But then she recovers, if you have no power to move the cause of her malady, do so.

I say this for your own sake. You must not be allowed to betray."

Maxey suddenly arose. For the first time the nature of his friend's suspicion dawned upon him.

"You believe this was my sister's crime?" he exclaimed in an uncharacteristic voice. "She would not do such a thing. I noticed this afternoon."

"She did!" cried Maxey, losing his calmness all at once. "She did, but don't you forget your own part in it.

The malady I spoke of was of such seriousness that I had to tell you to take care of her. I told you to take care of her. I told you to take care

England's Revolt Against the City That

Clears the Commons Each Year.

As is well known, it is only through country and in violation of strict rules that the English parliament is able to proceedings of the English parliament if an ill-natured member chooses to call out a member. I say strangers," the galleries must be immediately cleared.

This custom, of course, has become obsolete, and of late the ladies, who can go anywhere else in Westminster when visitors are allowed, through their exceptional champion, Mr. Hylle, have ensured to secure the same privileges relative to admission to the members' gallery as those accorded to men.

In a recent declaration before the house of parliament Mr. Herbert Gladstone stated that the exclusion of ladies from this place was based on the rule enforced by successive speakers that women must obtain admission to the house of commons by the same means as men. Between 1870 and 1878, the occasional presence of women in the gallery below the bar was permitted. Notices having on Feb. 1, 1878, been taken that strangers were present, the speakers who were my predecessors I think the galleries exhibit such persevering that they interrupt the order that house for two hours. Since that ladies have never been allowed to sit within that part of the house.

Mr. Herbert Gladstone's statement filled the English newspapers with editorial comment on the subject, and the general trend of which was to show that the British maid and mistress pro-prio to men. The ladies have since
